The Irrigation Movement.

Active preparations are now being made for the next National Irrigation Congress to be held about September 15th, at some point in the West not yet determined on. The last Congress, which was in session an entire week in Los Angeles, October, 1893, appointed Commissioners in every Western State and Territory, whose duty it is to prepare a report to be submitted to the coming Congress covering all the features of special interest in each State and Territory of the Arid West. These reports will show the amount of arid and semi-arid land; the amount of land now irrigated, and the acreage believed to be irrigable; the sources of water supply; developed and possible of development; the cost of procuring, storing, and delivering water on lands; State legislation, in force and needed; National legislation as to the disposition of arid lands and government control of water sources; and such other points as may suggest themselves to each Commission as being pertinent to their own State.

The Commission for Nevada is composed of John E. Jones, Carson City, Chairman; Jas. Newlands Jr., Carson City; L. H. Taylor, Reno; W. C. Pitt, Lovelock; R. M. Clark, Carson City.

The citizens of this State are cordially invited to correspond with any of these gentlemen, and give them such information as they may possess on the points to be covered by their report, as it is designed to cover every point of interest which can be suggested. Effie Ellsler.

The engagement of that bright and intelligent actress, Effie Ellsler commences at the Opera House this evening. A more conscientious and thorough artist can not be found on the stage today, and her supporting company never retrogrades from the excellent standard we are used to seeing with her. At this time, the first hearing in the city, will be given to Mr. Robert Drouet's play, written expressly for Miss Ellsler, and which has made an unquestionable success.

The story is founded on a familiar English convention about marriage, namely, that a woman cannot be pure, who, being divorced marries again while the first husband is living. The play is said to be very well constructed with an unflagging interest, and containing many strong situations. It has all the characteristics of an English drama and English life. The part of "Doris" is one said to tax Miss Ellsler's powers to the utmost, in some scenes, the strain upon her being terrible. "Doris" is a living, suffering, pathetic figure from first to last. There is an abundance of well written comedy in the play. Seats on sale at Steinmetz's.
